

George Cross and George Medal Set

Summary

King George, inaugurated the George Cross and George Medal in 1940, since then a total of 407 individuals – plus, collectively, the people of Malta and the Royal Ulster Constabulary - have won the George Cross and 2,123 have been awarded the George Medal, with 27 receiving it twice.

It is the highest civil decoration in the United Kingdom, the George Cross was launched just as the German Luftwaffe began its blitz on London in September 1940.

The aim of this new medal was to recognise the courage and bravery of civilians and military personnel in situations away from the front line.

The GC and GM medal set provides opportunity for a select number of only 500 people to own a replica medal that is only otherwise available only to people awarded it by the Monarchy.
